the integrity of the products, a key factor in the material supply chain.

New appointments have been made too, with Ray Raath and Rob MacQueen having recently signed up, to handle sales of the Performance Chemicals and Absorb Products respectively.

At the same time, the group is also bedding down its BOPP Packaging Solutions business, through which it is supplying the range of BOPP films from Taghleef Industries of Dubai. These specialised films are supplied into the packaging and display sectors. Duncan Brown was brought on board last year to manage this side of the business.

WAG has also enhanced its technology abilities, with the group employing polymer and rubber technologists as well as two chemical engineers, enabling it to offer back-up across the full range of materials it supplies.

The WAG team (from left): Duncan Brown was brought on board last year to manage the BOPP packaging solutions side of the business; Rob MacQueen who joined the team recently to handle sales of the Absorb Products; Margaret Wilson, commercial manager; Grant Rosettenstein, CFO, and Brent Hean (CEO)

AGL is supplying into 14 countries in the southern African market as well as the Indian Ocean islands.

The expansion also necessitated a move to larger premises, near King's Park in Durban, where the group's head office is now situated.
